

To accomplish what I have started and to die in it feeling I have fulfilled what I started - to reach a level where I and Manitou and the Indian will always keep the Indian faith alive - to be a great Artist and Preserver of Indian culture. I accept it fully as a duty in life which was set forth for, to set an example."

I can live anywhere. I can paint anywhere.
I have painted six panels of the Man Who Changed Into a Thunderbird.
All these paintings came from within. I don't need to isolate myself to do them.
I can paint them here, there or anywhere.
A pipe band could be going by, or cars
